The Trevi Fountain is one of the most famous monument in Rome and it is located in the historic center of the city.

The fountain was designed by Nicola Salvi in 1732, but it was finished by Giuseppe Pannini in 1762. Its name derives from the fact that in the middle age there were three roads forming a Trivium. One of the tradition of Trevi Fountain is to throw a coin in it expressing a desire. The fountain has appeared in several famous films like “La dolce vita” by Federico Fellini.
